

An Introduction to Methods for Monitoring Snow Pack for Flood and Drought Predictions

This session will cover the most common methods for monitoring snow depth and water content for the estimation of snow water equivalent (SWE). SWE is important for determining the amount of flood or drought potential due to snow pack.

Ken Conner, Application Engineer – Water Resources

Sam Utley, Communication Products Manager

sutley@campbellsci.com

kconner@campbellsci.com

Campbell Scientific

815 W 1800 N

Logan, UT 84332

435-227-9000